

OSTARA CRIME COMPETITION

Shots readers have the chance to win copies of Ostara Crime's reissue of three Janet Neel mysteries featuring her much-admired investigative duo (and eventually husband and wife team), high-flying civil servant Francesca Wilson and Detective Inspector John McLeish:

Death's Bright Angel (winner of the CWA's John Creasey Award, 1988);

Death of A Partner (short-listed for the CWA Gold Dagger, 1991);

Death Among The Dons (short-listed for the CWA Gold Dagger, 1993).

TO ENTER simply answer the following question: In 2005, crime-writers Janet Neel and Mike Ripley embarked on a promotional tour of libraries in London and the south-east to publicise their new novels. This tour became known unofficially as "The _____ Tour."

Useful clues can be found on the Ostara website (www.ostarapublishing.co.uk) by following the links to Ostara Crime and any Janet Neel title to the Articles and Reviews section feature A Tale of Two Angels.

ENTRIES should be by email using the CONTACT US link on the Ostara Home Page, putting 'Janet Neel Competition' in the Subject Line by Noon on 21st March 2013.

The winner will be chosen at random from correct entries and announced in April's Getting Away With Murder column in Shots.

The Judges decision is final.

N.B.: Please note entries must be through the Contact Us link on the Ostara website and NOT via Shots.
